EMT builds solutions for HP T300 Color Inkjet Press.

Green Bay, September 28, 2009: At the PRINT 09 trade show in Chicago on Sept 11, 2009, HP announced the commercialization of their new HP T300 Color Inkjet Web Press. With rave reviews, this Press was introduced to the market at the DRUPA 2008 trade show in Dusseldorf, Germany.

HP also introduced EMT International, Inc. as a partner that has “built solutions that are integrated into core of the HP T300 product development activities” and “EMT will work on the development and manufacture of wide-web inkjet press platforms in addition to specialty finishing solutions for the HP T300 Color Inkjet Press.”

Paul Rauscher, President of EMT International, Inc., said, “The partnership with HP has developed through the hard work, dedication, and efforts of our entire team at EMT. We are pleased to be a part of the new and exciting technology show on the HP Inkjet Press. The partnership between EMT and HP has helped us continue to excel in the fast-growing digital print equipment market. Our development of finishing and HP-platform products for this market has given us the opportunity to strengthen our business even in these challenging economic times."

"EMT has been growing over the last two years and expects to continue to see growth throughout the next several years. This is very good news for EMT and our personnel. At a time when much of the manufacturing sector has fallen on hard times, we have continued to see an increase. We expect to see future growth in employment, facilities, and equipment. HP is a premiere manufacturer of digital printing solutions and EMT is proud to be a partner in their plans for continued growth and development in the digital printing market place," said Rauscher.
